CONFESSOR had made a name for itself by writing unapologetically heavy riffs, with a unique flare for timing changes. The band had created quite a stir by playing all over the southeast and landing two tours in Europe, including the now legendary Gods of Grind tour with CARCASS and ENTOMBED. With the release of their debut album, Condemned, the band felt as though their chance was at hand to show the world what they knew -- CONFESSOR was unlike anything else out at the time. Unfortunately, label merging and politics forced CONFESSOR off of the U.S. leg of that famous tour in favor of the latest "new band". CONFESSOR's ongoing struggles with their label led to line up changes that seriously altered the band's trajectory and eventually they disbanded after only a single album was released. Luckily, over the years CONFESSOR's controversial, yet pioneering sound became accepted and adored by many in the metal community and in 2004 the band reunited for some festival appearances. They have reunited once again for a special appearance at the Maryland Deathfest in 2012.

Uncontrolled is the first time all three CONFESSOR demo tapes have been officially released. These are the demos that helped the band get signed to Earache Records back in 1990 and led to the eventual release of their now groundbreaking debut, Condemned. This collection is long overdue and fans have been demanding it for years so we at Divebomb Records are happy to oblige them. For the diehard fans, we have unearthed raw archival live footage as part of both an enhanced CD and bonus DVD.

INFORMATION:

Artist Hometown: Bethlehem, PA

Key Markets: LA, SF, Geneva, San Diego, Memphis, etc...

Arriving slightly after the '80s garage/psych revival - Bethlehem PA's THE CREATURES OF THE GOLDEN DAWN came on the scene with a lot more attitude than did earlier similar-minded combos. Lead by vocalist Mark Smith - their knife-sharp punky garage-meets-the-early-days-of-psychedelia tunes were filled with hooky riffs and always shadowed by varying degrees of darkness. THE CREATURES amassed a cult following in the states and Europe, and were played heavily on Little Steven's Underground Garage syndicated radio show.

Dark Was The Night...Cold Was The Ground is a collection of what Mark Smith felt were the group's best recorded efforts and includes tracks from their CD releases as well as their 7" EPs.

From the LP liner notes: Born of angst and attitude, THE CREATURES OF THE GOLDEN DAWN bring forth a collection of songs compelling you to get up and get to action! Savage rhythms, angry guitars and vocals filled with rage and emotion will set your souls, hearts and minds on fire! This is the music that has brought teenagers around the globe to the edge of mania! So get ready to GO with the primitive beat of THE CREATURES OF THE GOLDEN DAWN!

This album is dedicated to the memory of lead singer Mark Smith and guitarist Mike Smitresi.

Artist Hometown: Chicago, IL

For Fans of: ANTHRAX, METALLICA, POWERMAD, PANTERA and TESTAMENT

Formed as simply a metamorphosis of cult speed metal act, ZNÖWHITE, Chicago's CYCLONE TEMPLE stormed back onto the thrash metal scene with their Combat Records debut album, I Hate Therefore I Am, and the future was finally looking extremely prosperous for the band. Unfortunately, as with far too many bands back then, they were unable to fully capitalize on the growing momentum because of personal struggles within their ranks and then the sudden closing of Combat Records. When Sony Records closed the doors at Combat Records this left CYCLONE TEMPLE without a label, but instead of calling it quits the band regrouped and soldiered on. They continued combining elements of thrash metal, groove and even reggae into a style we think was misunderstood and too far ahead of its time back in the early '90s. Building Errors In The Machine and My Friend Lonely these two formerly independent and diverse releases are collected here in this deluxe edition reissue with remastered audio and new essay by Editor-in-Chief of AOL Music's Noisecreep, Carlos Ramirez. For the fans, by the fans!

INFORMATION:

Artist Hometown: London, England

For Fans of: METALLICA, EXCITER, SLAYER & MOTORHEAD

Although they only managed to release two albums in their short career in the '80s, DEATHWISH still managed to help influence not only the vibrant thrash scene of the time, but also the burgeoning death metal movement that would soon take over the underground. The English combo's 1986 Sword of Justice demo became a staple on tape trading lists throughout the globe, and their At the Edge of Damnation debut album the next year garnered the group rave reviews and set up what seemed to be a bright future for the speedsters.

In 1988 DEATHWISH unleashed their sophomore album, a menacing slab of vinyl entitled Demon Preacher. Packed with biting lyrics and one machete-sharp riff after the other, the 9-song collection should have propelled DEATHWISH to the commercial league that bands like OVERKILL, KREATOR and EXODUS were running in, but a series of setbacks ultimately killed off their chances of that happening.

Divebomb Records' reissue of Demon Preacher contains not only newly remastered audio but archival photos provided by the band and a brand new interview with David Brunt and Brad Sims conducted by Editor-in-Chief of AOL Music's Noisecreep, Carlos Ramirez. For the fans, by the fans!

FLY MACHINE - Live In Raleigh, NC

INFORMATION:

Artist Hometown: Raleigh, North Carolina

For Fans of: CONFESSOR, LOINCLOTH

FLY MACHINE was a band that was hard to put your finger on. On one hand, it was a no holds barred metal band intent on bashing out mean riffs and complex rhythm changes. On the other hand, FLY MACHINE was a band eager to break the confines of underground metal and explore other sounds. The band was originally the remnants of Raleigh's own metal heavyweights, CONFESSOR, and is now comprised of members of Loincloth (Southern Lord Recordings). This collection of songs, Come Metamorphosis, represents the transition from Confessor to FLY MACHINE. Much of this material had been written as CONFESSOR prior to vocalist Scott's departure, but FLY MACHINE had a very different way of delivering the same heavy music. There are obvious elements of CONFESSOR's identity throughout this anthology, but in the end FLY MACHINE became a very different band. Come Metamorphosis contains eight tracks the band had self-released in the mid-'90's and three never before released tracks. All tracks have been remastered by Jamie King at his Basement Studios in 2012.

For Fans of: VOI VOD, HIRAX, D.B.C. and cult techno/thrash/punk rock

Blending the raw and unfiltered aggression of punk with the technical skills and forward-thinking songwriting of thrash metal, IRONCHRIST should have become a household name. Although they were only around for a few years in the late '80s and early '90s, the Maryland band's musical output is among the most cherished by connoisseurs of the thrash and crossover eras. Outside of VOIVOD and late period DBC, few groups were playing the post-apocalyptic thrash thing as potently as IRONCHRIST did.

Divebomb Records deluxe edition of Getting The Most Out Of Your Extinction features the classic album as well as bonus tracks from their 12" EP and demo tape. It also features a brand new essay by editor of AOL Music's Noisecreep, Carlos Ramirez who conducted new interviews with three of the original four members to help shed some light on IRONCHRIST's brief rise and ultimate demise. INFORMATION:

Artist Hometown: Bern Switzerland

For Fans of: Henry Mancini, John Barry, Surf Music, Spy & Crime Jazz

Dynamic, outlandish and mood altering television scores for shows that don't exist. Perfect for parties, romantic evenings, long drives and adventures in outer-space via electronica created with vintage musical instruments.

Out of print as an LP for over 15 years, Stereophonic Space Sound Unlimited's debut platter, "Plays Lost TV Themes", was originally released on Dr. Dream records on both LP and CD in 1997. When Dr. Dream folded operations a couple of years later, Dionysus Records reissued the CD, but not the LP version of this album.

Even with six full-length albums (including a soundtrack for a movie about Swiss racecar driver Jo Siffert) under their belt, not much is known about this mysterious Swiss electronica duo - not one SSSU photograph exists! But that hasn't stopped them from garnering a legion of fans who love all retro, surf, spy, Henry Mancini, John Barry and electronica from buying and loving the group's music.

The album jacket was designed by artist SHAG before he became famous. The LP was cut at HRS (History of Recorded Sound) on a vintage Scully lathe using a Westrex 2-B stereo cutting head. And - this LP has what is called an eccentric shut-off groove; when the album ends the tonearm is lead to an off-center circle groove (harmless to the stylus) that swings the tonearm back and forth - this was a feature that was common on 78s and pre-1961 albums - it was used to kick in the shutoff or changer mechanisms. Dionysus had HRS cut the record this way because they are record geeks and wanted to take the retro thing a step further...

Marketing Points:

- > Out of print on LP since 1997
- > The first release by the legendary Stereophonic Space Sound Unlimited
- > Artwork by SHAG
- > Cut on a vintage Scully Lathe using a Westrex 2-B Stereo Cutting Head

Themes of resilience and hope flow through Tim Barry's new record, 40 Miler. "If this record is uplifting compared to my old ones it's because I feel stronger from all the beat-downs and shit I've taken in the past," says the Richmond, Virginia-based artist. Throughout 40 Miler, the rough-hewn characters populating Barry's lyrics refuse to surrender even in the face of long odds. 40 Miler also finds Barry taking his spare folk-country sound in a different direction. This time around Barry opts for more raucous, rocking approach on several tracks, adding more electric guitar, organ, piano, harmonica, as well as the gorgeous voice of Richmond songstress Julie Karr to the mix.
